

NEGRO LAWYER ACCUSED OF CONTEMPT OF COURT

John A. Moss Alleged to Have Addressed Jury.

"NOT GUILTY, GENTLEMEN"

Deputy Marshals Testify Jury Was Passing Lawyer's Office—Says
He Did Not Refer to Butler.

John A. Moss, a negro lawyer, was called before Justice Wright yesterday afternoon, in Criminal Court No. 2, to show cause why he should not be punished for contempt of court. Moss is accused by two United States deputy marshals with shouting to the members of the jury who were trying James Butler for murder, "Not guilty, gentlemen; not guilty, gentlemen," yesterday morning, when they were passing his office, on D Street, between Fifth and Sixth Streets.

Deputy Marshals Testify Jury Was Passing Lawyer's Office—Says He Did Not Refer to Butler.

Deputy Marshals Wilkinson and Leathman, who were in charge of the jury at the time, testified that Moss made use of the language attributed to him. The members of the jury had been conducted to an upstairs restaurant for breakfast, and were returning to the courtroom when the incident took place. At the time Moss used the language attributed to him the jurors were in D Street, in front of his office, near the Police Court.

Moss Says It's Ridiculous.

Mr. Moss testified in his own defense. He said it was ridiculous for anyone to attribute to him the language which was attributed to him. He said that he was not aware of the fact that a jury trying a murder case passed his office yesterday, and also that he did not know the man on trial for his life nor any of the attorneys connected with the trial.

Released on Personal Bond.

In order that Mr. Flynn and some of the members of the jury may testify in the matter the hearing was postponed until tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock.

Justice Wright said Mr. Moss should give a bond in the sum of $200 for his appearance tomorrow, but after hearing a statement from Assistant District Attorney Peyton Gordon, he released Mr. Moss on his personal recognizance.

Relics of the Mound Builders of the Ohio

Results of Recent Excavations in the River Valley.

Prof. C. W. Mills, curator of the State Archaeological and Historical Society, has been a large force of assistants has been at work for the greater part of the summer excavating the site of a village of the mound builders, just north of this city, and has made some extremely interesting discoveries, which appear to shed a new light upon the habits and customs of that ancient people. The mound was a large one, and has proved in many ways the richest yet uncovered in this State.

The discoveries made seem to show that mound builders were agricultur- ists on a large scale, as well as hunters, fishers, potters, and weavers. At this village forty-nine large pits had been dug to serve as storehouses for corn, beans, and other agricultural products, and when they were full there would have been supplies sufficient to carry a large tribe not only through the winter, but through the following season until the crops had matured. In many of these pits stores of grain were found, some of it in good condition.

There have also been found traces of a great clam bakes, and aboriginal "merry-making." For days before the great feast a portion of the tribe must have been busy collecting clams or mus- sels along the adjacent river, until over 10,000 had been gathered. The hunters had brought in elk, deer, bear, coon, and groundhog, and the women must have got these ready for spit and cal- dron. Then a pit, four feet in diam- eter and ten feet deep, was dug, and in this a fire was started and kept burn- ing so hotly that the sides of the pit were baked to a deep red.

When the guests assembled they must have been greeted by appetizing odors. Into the deep pit 450 boulders from the river had been placed and raised to white heat. Then 10,000 clams had been dumped on them, covered closely with wet grass, and left to bake. In other pits great quantities of game were roasting, and near by in an immense caldron was venison soup. Just what other items were on the bill of fare is not certain, but there were probably beans and grains of the various kinds in the soup, and a coarse bread made of cornmeal. Then, when all was ready, the clams were uncovered, the meat was distributed, and each one helped him- self to the soup.

The evidences of all this are not to be misconstrued. There is the deep pit where the clams were baked, with the boulders still in it, and the burned sides. About it are scattered 20,000 clam shells. Near by are the smaller pits, with their heaps of bones, and around the caldron are spoons of turtle shell. The chopped and spit-roasted deer bones show that the basis of the soup was venison.

There are those who think that this great feast was arranged to celebrate the deaths of two patriarchs of the tribe, who must have died at the same time, as they were buried together. They were a man and a woman, and had reached an age so extreme that the man had not a single tooth left, and the woman only one—this, too, de- spite the fact that the teeth of the buried were usually well preserved.

A great array of trinkets of var- ious kinds were found with their bodies. Other bodies have been found, and many interesting relics—these latter being turned up at an average rate of about 10 a day. Several perfect and well preserved bear heads have been found, the first ones that have ever been dis- covered intact in Ohio. Among the other valuable finds have been fish hooks of bone, as perfect as the modern hook; images of various an- imals, carved and worn as charms; necklaces made of finely polished bones and teeth; pottery of various designs and ornamentation; weaving implements, including needles and small bobbins made of stone; carved pipes, and a great va- riety of other things. The work of ex- cavation will not be completed until late fall, and many other valuable dis- coveries are expected. —Chillicothe (Ohio) dispatch to New York Tribune.

Short-lived Careers of Modern Pugilists

Fighters Don't Stay in the Ring as Long as They Once Did.

"In former years a pugilist was not considered in his prime until after he had passed 30," said a veteran follower of the prize ring recently. "Nowadays, however, it is different. A fighter who is still at the top of his class after his twenty-eighth year is considered a wonder. Of course, there are exceptions, as in the case of Bob Fitzsimmons. He is certainly a well-preserved man, and it will be many months before we find another like him. Fitz is nearly forty-two, but he can fight as well as he did ten years ago. Then, there are Tommy Ryan, Joe Choynski and Joe Walcott. Choynski was never a champion, but he is a great pugilist for all that.

"Take the old-timers, such as Bar- ney Aaron, Jim Mace, Dooney Rice, and others. They did their best fighting after they were thirty. Then there was Joe Goddard, Frank Slavin, the late Peter Jackson, Billy Edwards, and Pete McCoy. John L. Sullivan was all in, so to speak, before he was thirty- four. Kid McCoy is under thirty and has been forced to retire, because, ac- cording to his own admission, he can not fight any more. George Dixon lost the featherweight title to Terry Mc- Govern when he was in his thirtieth year. McGovern, in turn, was defeat- ed by Young Corbett before he was twenty-two. Pedler Palmer won the bantam championship of the world from Billy Plimmer when he was twenty, and gave way to McGovern four years later. Although Palmer is twenty-eight, he has been regarded as a has-been for some time. Billy Plimmer was compelled to quit the ring before he was thirty.

Kid Lavigne, one of the best light- weights the arena has produced in the last decade, was all in before he was twenty-nine. Frank Erne, who suc- ceeded him at the top of this class, went down before Joe Gans, the great lightweight champion, in his twenty- seventh year, and now he has retired. Jim Corbett was knocked out by Bob Fitzsimmons and lost the heavyweight championship when he was thirty-one. Tom Sharkey, although only in his thirtieth year, has been out of it ever since his last fight with Jim Jeffries in 1899. Sharkey always paid the strictest attention to his health, too. Starlight, the veteran Australian middleweight, who has been the trial horse for a num- ber of the foremost Australian heavy- weights, past and present, is still fight- ing. Starlight is nearly fifty, but the youngsters have all they can do to beat him in decision fights.

"Harry Forbes, who is only a young- ster, having been born in 1879, lost the bantam title to Frankie Neil a few months ago. Forbes has been fighting ever since 1897. Jack McAuliffe was not more than thirty-one when he retired. Gus Huilin, who was born in 1872, is still in the ring, but he has never shown much form since he was put to sleep by Bob Fitzsimmons three years ago. Peter Mabey has been out of it for years, al- though he is still a young man. He was born in 1883. The Sullivan brothers, Spike and Dave, have been residing in here for years, yet neither of them is over thirty. Kid McPartland, of this city, who was expected to fill Kid La- vigne's shoes some day, has retired from the ring. McPartland was born in 1876, but he was forced to quit boxing a year ago when he was knocked out by Joe Gans.

"The method of modern pugilists in training and looking after their health is different from that which the old- timers used to undergo. Present day scrapers make two to three times as much money as some of the champions of the past, and they live only for today." —New York Sun.

BUTLER FOUND GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER

Remanded to Jail to Await Sentence of Court.

HISTORY OF THE CRIME

Killed Stepfather, Who Was Beating
His Mother, by Striking Him on Head With Ax.

James Butler, a negro boy, was yesterday convicted in Criminal Court No. 2, of manslaughter. The specific crime with which Butler was charged was killing his stepfather, Joseph Green, by striking him on the head with an axe on Monday last before Justice Wright in Criminal Court No. 2. The case was submitted to the jury yesterday afternoon about 4:15 o'clock and about an hour later a verdict was reported. Justice Wright remanded Butler to jail to await sentence.

Defended His Mother.

The crime for which Butler was put on trial was committed in King's Alley. There he lived with his stepfather, Joseph Green and his mother. From the evidence it appeared that on the morning of June 23, before going away from home, Green gave permission to his wife, Nettie Green, to sell some rugs to obtain money to go on an excursion. She sold the rugs. In the afternoon Green returned home under the influence of liquor and quarreled with his wife because she sold the rugs and demanded that she give him the money she received for them. This she refused to do and they quarreled.

Mother's Testimony.

She and her son testified that Green beat her with the handle of a broom and with a barrel stave. Mrs. Green was knocked down and then her son, the accused, went to her assistance and struck Green on the head with an ax and he died from the effects of the injury. Evidence was also offered to prove that on Easter Sunday last, Butler had threatened to kill his stepfather.

The Government was represented by Assistant District Attorneys Peyton G. Gordon and Jesse Atkins, and the pris- oner by Stone Abert and James A. Toomey.

CAPT. A. P. CUNNINGHAM DIES AFTER BRIEF ILLNESS

Gained Notoriety by Firing Off Cannon in White House Grounds.

Capt. Albas Patrick Cunningham, for more than thirty-two years an employee of the Government in various capacities, died Friday at his residence, 647 Eleventh Street northeast, after an illness of about six months. Captain Cunningham was widely known in the District. He gained much notoriety many years ago by firing a salute near the White House grounds in the dead of night, in celebration of Gen. John A. Logan's election to the Senate.

The funeral will take place from St. Joseph's Church, at 3 o'clock Tuesday morning. The Rev. Father J. Schmitt, pastor of the church, will officiate. Interment will be at Mount Olivet. The pallbearers will be Messrs. Reed, Waters, Connelly, Thornton, Belt, and Gillen. Captain Cunningham was born in New York sixty-one years ago. He spent his early life on his father's farm in North Dakota, and came to Washington thirty-two years ago to accept a position as head of inspectors in the War Department. In that position he remained for two years, and was then assigned to the construction division of the Navy Department. In later years he held the position of immigration inspector in Canada and Western cities.

Cunningham was for a number of years captain of Light Battery A, Washington Field Artillery. It was while in command of the battery that he became conspicuous as the man who awoke President Cleveland from his slumbers by firing the cannon in the rear of the White House. He numbered among his friends many persons prominent in the official life of the city. He is survived by a widow and five children, three daughters and two sons.

MOCCASIN IMBEDDED IN SIX FEET OF SAND

NORFOLK, Va., Dec. 19.—The fate of the submarine torpedo boat Moccasin is uncertain. Since going ashore near Currituck, N. C., the vessel has sunk into the sand to a depth of six feet. Wreckers are working constantly, but have accomplished nothing. If there is an unusually high tide soon, she can be pulled off. It will then be necessary, however, to dig a canal in order to float the Moccasin to deep water.

TREASURY DEFICIT HAS DISAPPEARED

Instead of It Balance Sheet Shows Surplus of More Than Five Millions.

The Treasury deficit for the current fiscal year, over which so much discussion has been raised, has disappeared. A comfortable surplus is now on hand. At the close of business at the Treasury yesterday the excess of receipts over expenditures for the current fiscal year was $5,137,553.23. The expenditures of the Government this month have been about $3,000,000 lower than they were in December of last year, and this has made the surplus possible. No gain in receipts for the month is shown, but, on the contrary, a considerable loss. Government receipts and expenditures yesterday were: From customs, $567,196.07; internal revenue, $727,077.33; miscellaneous, $78,302.19; total receipts, $1,372,575.59; total expenditures, $1,550,000. Refunding operations at the Treasury yesterday had reached a total of $14,626,400. The total of 5 per cent bonds redeemed to date is $12,646,550.

POSTMASTER IN FACT IF NOT IN HIS TITLE

President Discovers Peculiar Situation in Kansas and Proceeds to Remedy Matters.

President Roosevelt today appointed B. L. Taft to be postmaster at Parsons, Kan., and uncovered a tale of alleged subterfuge and deception by which a man acquired and held public office. Senator Burton recommended Peter Foley, a newspaper publisher, for the postmastership at Parsons. So many charges were filed and so many remonstrances made against his selection that the President finally recommended Mr. Burton to make another recommendation. Mr. Benz, foreman in Mr. Foley's printing office, was promptly endorsed and appointed.

It is said that Foley immediately took charge of the postoffice and managed it, while Benz continued to run the printing office. When this fact came to the President's attention he ignored both Foley and Benz and named Mr. Taft, without consulting Mr. Burton as to the place.

SAVE THE CHILDREN.

Scarlet fever is unknown in countries where cow's milk is not used as food, hence milk from unsanitary stables may contain the poison producing it.

Milk is also known to have caused epidemics of DIPHTHERIA, TYPHOID, and other ENTERIC DISEASES. A proper and simple precaution consists in SCALDING MILK (Don't boil it) for children and invalids, and scalding will not affect the digestibility. After scalding, keep cool and covered. A regular diet for children on condensed milk is inadvisable.
